

'Blocking' Can Tie Up Accounts

Everyone's nightmare: You're at a restaurant with a business client or a date and your debit card is declined. No one wants it to happen to them, but it can—even if you have enough money in your account to cover the bill.

It's called "blocking" and it's perfectly legal. It works similarly to the way credit card blocking works. For example, if you check into a hotel or rent a car, the clerk usually contacts the company that issued your card to give an estimated total. A hold then is placed on your card for an amount that is sometimes greater than the actual purchase amount. This hold can block your use of the money for up to five days on a debit card and possibly 10-15 days on a credit card.

For debit card users, blocking happens most often at gas pumps, but can occur whenever you use your card before knowing how much you'll be spending.

According to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), merchants use blocking to make sure you don't exceed your account balance before leaving a gas station or checking out of a hotel, leaving the merchant unpaid.

Some tips to avoid blocking are:

- Use credit cards, not debit cards, for hotel bills & car rentals.
- When you're traveling, stop at stations of major gasoline brands.

A Message From Our CEO

Jeff Thompson

Your Credit is Key

Did your mom and dad ever tell you how important it was to eat your vegetables and drink your milk so that you would grow big and strong? Have you ever said the same things to your children?

Did your mom and dad ever discuss the importance of financial responsibility with you? Have you ever discussed it with your children? I would venture to say that this should rank ahead of milk and vegetables. I can remember my dad saying, "We pay our bills before we eat."

Good credit can be your best friend and bad credit can be your worst enemy. Good credit can open so many doors for an individual as you move through life. It can help you get a job. It can help you buy a car to get to your job. It can help you get your first apartment. It can help you buy your first home. It can help you through difficult situations.

Good credit will also save you money. It will allow you to dictate price when you're shopping for a new car instead of being at the mercy of the car dealer. It will allow you to dictate the interest rate for your car loan instead of being at the mercy of some finance company. It will also allow you to get the best terms for a mortgage loan when you buy a home.

How's your credit? If you're not sure, come by the credit union and any of our Financial Service Officers will be glad to discuss your credit with you. We want our members to always be able to get the best deal possible.

What's the best advice I can give you?

Before you borrow from anyone, talk to your credit union first. No one is going to look out for your best interests better than we do.

Thanks for being a member owner!

Sincerely,
Jeff

Don't Let Your Account Go Dormant!

The Division of Unclaimed Property requires that all financial institutions report dormant accounts annually to the State of Virginia. For our credit union, a dormant account is presumed abandoned (dormant) five years after the date of a mailing of a statement or other notification that was returned as undeliverable and if it has not had activity in five years. Dividends posted to your account and phone transfers do not count as a transaction.

We will be contacting our members who are considered dormant in the near future. If you are contacted by us please stop by, call, write or e-mail us to verify that your account is active. Please direct your inquiries to Rose Hoback, extension 3617. If your account is dormant, making a deposit or withdrawal in person will bring it out of dormancy.

Now is the perfect time to review the many services offered by your credit union.
